SUBJECT: Physical Examination Requirements for Aircraft Flight Support Personnel (revised 12/6/05)

1. REFERENCES

- a. NPD 1810.2, "NASA Occupational Medicine Program."
- b. LPR 1710.16, "Aircraft Operations and Safety Manual."

2. SUMMARY

This directive sets forth the requirements and responsibilities for personnel serving at Langley Research Center (LaRC) on research aircraft flights in a support role to obtain a physical examination to be certified for flight.

3. REQUIREMENTS

See LPR 1710.16, "Aircraft Operations and Safety Manual," Medical Certification section, for the requirements definition.

NOTE: Personnel traveling as passengers on NASA aircraft (such as the NASA-1 aircraft) are not required to obtain physical examinations.

4. RESPONSIBILITIES

- a. Immediate Supervisors:
 - (1) Provide the Occupational Health Services Office (OHSO), extension 43192, with the names of employees who meet the requirements as defined above.
 - (2) Inform the OHSO of any employee who no longer meets these conditions
- b. OHSO
 - (1) Schedule and provide flight physicals to persons meeting the above requirements upon the approval of the Manager, OHSO.
 - (2) Maintain necessary records and follow-up files to keep the certifications current for the individuals involved.

c. Manager, OHSO

Approve flight physicals for identified employees after review with appropriate management officials.

Note: Flight physicals will be provided to contractor employees meeting the conditions as stated in LPR 1710.16 or its successor document consistent with the language of the contract.

5. RECISION
